

ABSTRACT

A video projector including a network adapter, a microprocessor physically and electrically coupled to the network adapter, a graphics adapter physically and electrically coupled to the microprocessor, a light valve physically and electrically coupled to the graphics adapter, and a light source physically coupled to the light valve. The video projector is operable to receive video data in digital form and the network adapter and the video projector is operable to transfer the video data to the microprocessor, the graphics adapter, and the light valve in digital form.

09879770-051101